

Whirlwind Halloween Night

On a spooky, windy Halloween night—
Woo-oo, woo-oo, in the pale moonlight—
We lit our lanterns, so brave and bright,
But the wind had a trick in sight, alright!

"Whistle and whoosh!" Hear the wind's wild song,
Woo-oo, woo-oo, as it danced along.
Spinning and twirling, it played all night long,
Whispering secrets of Halloween's throng.

It was eerie and thrilling, this ghostly night,
Woo-oo, woo-oo, what a magical sight!
We gasped and giggled in the moon's soft light,
As the wind whispered tales of Halloween's might.

"Whistle and whoosh!" Now listen close,
Woo-oo, woo-oo, to the wind's playful boast.
Sweeping and swaying like a ghostly host,
Laughing as it danced from coast to coast.

It roared with joy, so fierce and bright,
Woo-oo, woo-oo, in the starry night.
It blew out our lanterns - oh, what a sight!
But we laughed along, in sheer delight!

"Whistle and whoosh!" the wind did sing,
Woo-oo, woo-oo, with a Halloween fling.
Twirling and swirling in an autumn ring,
That wind - oh, it laughed like a Halloween king!
